word choice - "Suffer" vs. "suffer from" - English Language Sep 25, 2013 · suffer from interference from other transmitters would be correct, corresponding to example 1.1; and omitting the 'from' does not correspond to any of the examples there without 'from', and appears strange to me. A word for "wanting everyone else to suffer the same as you"? Jun 15, 2020 · Professor: No. When I was a student like you, we had to struggle to answer them on our own. If the professor decided to do so solely because he wanted everyone else to "suffer" the same as he did, did he/she do it out of ____? As far as I have searched here, I did not find a specific word for this kind of "forcing an empathy". What is the difference between "suffer for" and "suffer from"? May 6, 2021 · "Suffer for" introduces a reason for punishment or suffering that is typically caused by other human beings, and which people either choose to accept because of what they believe in, or are forced to endure because of their past actions (this is the sense in "suffer for my sins"). Suffering succotash - English Language & Usage Stack Exchange Dec 31, 2014 · I suppose it's possible the expression was used (on rare occasions) in the mid-1800s, but I'd have thought that would be largely irrelevant to it being revived/coined by cartoon characters later. Warner, Disney, etc., wouldn't want any of their target audience to see it as a "minced oath", since that would still be potentially offensive to some. Whatever - my guess is sufferin' succotash is a ... single word requests - People that rejoice in others' suffering ... Jul 13, 2017 · I would like to know what terms can be used in English to refer to people that rejoice in other people's suffering (as opposed to empathizing with such people). What are some of the motivations that word choice - Damage incurred/sustained/inflicted - English ... Consider the definitions: Sustain verb 2 Undergo or suffer (something unpleasant, especially an injury) - ODO Incur verb Become subject to (something unwelcome or unpleasant) as a result of one's own behaviour or actions - ODO inflict verb 1 Cause (something unpleasant or painful) to be suffered by someone or something - ODO If the damage was ... Undergo vs Suffer an accident - English Language & Usage ... Dec 13, 2018 · The difference here is one of affect, which used as a noun is a psychological term for "the emotion associated with an idea or set of ideas." One can undergo any process, including an accident, but the tenor of the example makes it clear that whoever is relating the tale has a distinct opinion about it. The pilot's accident was a catastrophe (her ... Suffered from vs suffered - English Language & Usage Stack ... Oct 26, 2013 · Suffer from, on the other hand, is generally used when referring to the continuing consequences of a negative event or experience: For the last few years of her life she suffered from a heart attack that occurred on her 80th birthday. The company suffered from the setback until things picked up 5 years ago. "Lunch" vs. "dinner" vs. "supper" — times and meanings? Apr 24, 2011 · There's actually quite a bit of variation in different regions of the US. As I said, it's quite common to hear Dinner as the noontime meal in many areas of the American South. I've noticed that there's even a split in Texas where some regions use Lunch/Dinner and others use Dinner/Supper. These differences have tended to mix up and get confused as people from different regions have mixed, and ... meaning - It suffered me a lot or it made me suffer a lot? - English ... Aug 29, 2020 · I understand that the second sentence (it made me suffer a lot) is correct, but could anyone please explain why? I couldn't find an explanation on the internet. Many thanks.
