Chinese Netizens' Opinions on Death Sentences Bin Liang, Jianhong Liu, 2021-11-15 Few social issues have received more public attention and scholarly debate than the death penalty. While the abolitionist movement has made a successful stride in recent decades, a small number of countries remain committed to the death penalty and impose it with a relatively high frequency. In this regard, the People's Republic of China no doubt leads the world in both numbers of death sentences and executions. Despite being the largest user of the death penalty, China has never conducted a national poll on citizens' opinions toward capital punishment, while claiming "overwhelming public support" as a major justification for its retention and use. Chinese Netizens' Opinions on Death Sentences: An Empirical Examination uses a forum of public comments to explore and examine Chinese netizens' opinions on the death penalty. Based on a content analysis of 38,512 comments collected from 63 cases in 2015, this study examines the diversity and rationales of netizens' opinions, netizens' interactions, and their evaluation of China's criminal justice system. In addition, the book discusses China's social, systemic, and structural problems and critically examines the rationality of netizens' opinions based on Habermas's communicative rationality framework. Readers will be able to contextualize Chinese netizens' discussions and draw conclusions about commonalities and uniqueness of China's death penalty practice.

The Conseil Privé and the Parlements in the Age of Louis XIV Albert N. Hamscher, 1987 This vol., while encompassing the entire reign of Louis XIV & all the parlements of the realm, has the narrow focus of investigating the impact of royal policy on the judicial authority of the parlements as revealed in their relations with the king's councils, notably the one that specialized in judicial affairs, the Conseil Privé. This is above all a study of the evolution of conciliar jurisprudence & judicial procedure, as much an exercise in what the French call l'histoire du droit as an opportunity to observe in a novel way the resolution of some of the most pressing political problems in the Age of Louis XIV. But the overall aim is to understand the practical consequences of royal absolutism for the kingdom's highest judicial institutions.

In this volume, originally intended as a message of congratulation for his 80th birthday (June 14, 1990) around twenty of his own lectures and articles are presented here which previously were less accessible, because, for instance, they were written in Dutch. All the collected studies are now published in English apart from two in German and two in French. They cover the whole of his scholarly life, from his inaugural address on Kingship in Ancient Israel (1938) to his contribution about Psalm lxxxi 6a, to the Festschrift for G.W. Ahlström (1984). The volume is concluded with a bibliography comprising all Professor de Boer's publications concerning the Old Testament and related scholarly subjects.

For allies they have the undersized mercenary Dae Goldeneyes, the unicorn Twinklestar, a pack of street-kids, and a handful of grown-ups who think they know what they're doing (but who all got themselves captured right off). And their only real resource is... their own skill at playing pranks... This epic fantasy explores the mysterious connections between Magick and Economics, Empire and Ethics, Friendship and Family... and of course, PRANKS! Want to start at the beginning? Book One of the Prankster Prince: Thony and the Much-Anticipated Adventure is available in print and eBook at all fine online retailers!  Teaser: "EEEEEEEEek!" Amanita hid quickly to avoid being seen by someone running by - then peeked out as a sergeant and captain in Raven-soldier colors came out of a door down the hall. "You realize you've roused the entire garrison, Captain Fayorn," the sergeant growled. "I can't imagine His Sorcerousness is going to be particularly forgiving that you disturbed their rest because of a mouse." "A rat," Captain Fayorn corrected with a shudder as they stopped in front of another door. "Or so I thought at first. It wasn't real. Someone was trying to rattle me." The sergeant grunted. "I don't suppose you were able to apprehend the culprit?" Fayorn flushed. "I most certainly did." The sergeant entered the room and emerged moments later with a 'rat' in each of his massive paws. Thony and Dae, held in place by the scruffs of their collars. Thony looked chagrined; Dae, indignant. "Children?" Sergeant Sterevor said in amusement. "Go back to bed, sir. I'll take care of this little rodent problem." Captain Fayorn glared back at him, then stalked past and went back in his room, slamming the door behind him. The sergeant chuckled, letting go of his captives, but turning them so they both had to face him. "So, you're the scoundrels who disturbed Captain Fayorn's beauty sleep." "Yup!" Dae said proudly. Thony groaned. "Hunh." Sergeant Sterevor shoed the pair of them back down the corridor. They passed within inches of the darkened doorway where Amanita stood frozen.
