The majesty and mystery of Alaska yellow cedar | Geophysical ... Jul 23, 2021 · A tree near one of our campsites had a crack at its base through which we could pass the folded saw. Yet the tree was still alive, with just one rope of cambium — the outer bark that transports water and nutrients — snaking up the trunk. A few of its blue-green feathery leaves flagged from the top of what otherwise looked like a snag. The war within the aspen leaves | Geophysical Institute Jul 31, 2025 · They think the fierce, silent conflict has probably benefited both the insect population and a tree that's been under siege in Interior Alaska for a long time. Leaf miners are moth larvae that stencil the surfaces of aspen leaves with their transparent tracks. After infestation, the leaves appear silvery from a distance. Wildlife Conservation Group In the months from October 2024 to January 2025, significant efforts were undertaken to plan and gather essential data, laying the groundwork for the commencement of fieldwork under the Vanasuma Project. Key preparatory activities included the appointment of staff, procurement of reference materials, creation of a tree species checklist, and the design of transect lines for ...

Witches' Broom | Geophysical Institute Aug 14, 2025 · Witches' broom on spruce trees is caused by a rust disease (a kind of fungus disease). The rust lives on the spruce tree throughout the year. Each spring, small yellow pustules appear on the new needles of the broom. A strong sweet odor, which is easily recognizable, usually accompanies the maturation of these pustules. Burls - Geophysical Institute Aug 14, 2025 · Burls, spherical woody growths on the trunks of spruce, birch and other trees, are commonly found throughout wooded parts of Alaska. More on Why Tree Trunks Spiral | Geophysical Institute Aug 14, 2025 · I eventually found a tree with a spiral lightning mark and it followed the spiral grain exactly. One tree, of course, proves nothing. "But why should the tree spiral? More speculation here: Foliage tends to be thicker on the south side of the tree because of better sunlight. Tree Rings and History | Geophysical Institute Aug 14, 2025 · A tree's age can be easily determined by counting its growth rings, as any Boy or Girl Scout knows. Annually, the tree adds new layers of wood which thicken during the growing season and thin during the winter. These annual growth rings are easily discernible (and countable) in cross-sections of the tree's trunk. In good growing years, when sunlight and ... Northern Tree Habitats - Geophysical Institute Aug 14, 2025 · Interior Alaskan forests have only six native tree species: white spruce, black spruce, quaking aspen, balsam poplar, larch (tamarack) and paper birch. Northern Canadian forests have all of those, plus jack pine, balsam fir and lodgepole pine. Since northern Canada and interior Alaska share the same grueling climate and extremes of daylength, why are the ... Cottonwood and Balsam Poplar | Geophysical Institute Aug 14, 2025 · The Klukwan giant holds the national record for black cottonwood diameter. Its nearest rival, a tree near Salem, Oregon, does hold the national height record. The Klukwan giant belies the belief that trees tend to get smaller the farther north one goes. Both balsam poplar and cottonwood have value for fuel wood, pulp and lumber. Diamond Willow | Geophysical Institute Aug 14, 2025 · Red, diamond-shaped depressions in the otherwise creamy white willow wood create the curious, sometimes exotic, patterns exhibited by canes and furniture made from Alaskan diamond willow.
